

Easter festivities

Almost an annual tradition practised by both Christians and non-Christians. We associate Easter above all with a rich set of customs related to the awakening of nature in spring: chocolate bunnies, baskets of colourful Easter eggs and the hunt for those delightful eggs.

I hopped at the chance to participate at the one of the most sought-after events of the year - Easter Egg Hunt event. Fun for the parent volunteers to hide and exciting for the girls to find. Every level had 50 plastic eggs to be found at their respective recess times. There were the fast ones who dashed down and with their sharp eyes and fast hands, they scooped up the eggs for a one-to-one redemption for real chocolate eggs.

Just like Easter holds different significance to everyone, the event conjured up different feelings - some were thrilled, some disappointed and others nonchalant. However it went, I do hope the true essence of Easter would truly touch hearts and the significance of it, that Jesus rose from the dead as the Saviour of this world, may come true for lives of many to know Him.

I enjoyed the hiding of the eggs with the other parent volunteers, and hope the hunt was equally fun for the girls. An event though simple and small, may well be planting important seeds of curiosity and lead to great faith for some in time to come. It was indeed a privilege to be part of the sowing of seeds.

Special thanks and acknowledgement to our teachers for their time and effort in ensuring the success of the event. Ms Brenda Liu, Mr Justin Yeo, Mrs Janice Ong, Ms Elizabeth Ng
