Kudos to the CPC team for organising today's well thought out Welcome Breakfast and sharing details of the events & programmes planned for the year. The event saw an ever enthusiastic turnout of over 70 parents from Primary one .

A fitting informal platform to have parents come together for a chat. It's at such get-togethers that can parents put a face to a name outside of the ever convenient WhatsApp chat groups.

It was also heartening to know how committed the CPC Parent Volunteers are, working together with the school to holistically engage the girls and their families - to not forget about having fun & learning life skills whilst on the girl's academia marathon!

Perhaps a Parents mocktail party next time? Would be ideal after exam season, just to recalibrate after the indirect stress. Haha
